

My Online Boutique and Paris Business IT Support

Moving from San Francisco to Paris fulfilled a life-long dream for Chloe Simmons. When she settled into her new home she decided to reopen her shop. Online. With the internet available as a global marketplace, the sky is now the limit. Aside from the actual business, entrepreneurs now need to know how best the internet and computer services can work for them. Chloe needed good access to Paris IT support, as well as affordable regular Paris computer maintenance. She could combine both in a Paris IT support package, offered by a reputable provider.

Setting up shop

Chloe explained “When I began my online boutique, I was an expert in vintage clothes, and the Internet offered great rewards, but also posed serious challenges. For example, web-hosting. Should I have a shared website or a private server? I did not know the difference. Having the business was not enough, I had to be able to turn the Internet into my own personal promotional sign for my boutique “Second Time Around”. As I would not employ anyone, it looked like I would benefit from companies offering outsourcing services. That way I could learn more about the technical side of things, as well as building my brand. I would also learn social media strategies, and how to build and maintain both an audience and a strong web presence. This would mean that my Parisian vintage store would be high up on the search lists when customers were looking on the Internet for a shop like mine.

Building Business

The ability to find and bring in a reliable company was vital. This meant that Chloe could concentrate on what she loved best, the business of buying and selling vintage clothes. As the business expands her level of technical support may change. With the correct help and professional advice, she can stay focused.

Chloe continued, “The shop has to have a professional business image, and you need reliable services on hand to fix problems right away. For my business I needed 24/7 availability with call centre support so that I could run my shop smoothly, avoiding losses and frustrations. My specific Paris IT solutions were tailored precisely to my geography, profile and budget.

Chartres window cleaning for the Chateau de Maintenon

Clean clear windows are essential to make a building beautiful and bright, improve maintenance and help the overall appearance. The sublime Chateau de Maintenon, is one example of the glorious chateaux of France. The Chateau recently sought a reliable Chartres window cleaner to assist with refurbishment of the 'coeur d'honneur' between the east and west wings, the 'petit logis' and the Orangerie, added in the 18th century. For completing the herculean task of cleaning the mullioned windows of the Chateau, a Chartres commercial window cleaner was needed. It was also necessary for the work to be carried out by a company nearby with the expertise and experience to meet the criteria and standards demanded by the owners.

Sustaining a rich legacy

Although a domestic Chartres window cleaner could have been used, in the end a commercial company which could adapt to the complexities of the task was thought more beneficial. The Chateau is vast, and has a vibrant history as the home of Madame de Maintenon, the wife of Louis XVI who purchased it in 1675. It also hosted Charles X, the celebrated French author Racine as well as Francois-Rene Chateaubriand, the writer politician and ambassador credited with founding Romanticism.

Protecting and maintaining the Chateau windows

A good window cleaner can give warnings of dangerous problems that affect the building. They can spot any fire hazards, wood rot, insect infestations and save time in the performance of cleaning itself. They can extend the life of the window, diagnosing and recommending suitable treatments for glass which has become mottled, cloudy or fractured. Cleaning the glass with professional equipment, and treating threatening moulds on glass which cause spotting which is another serious issue.

In buildings of such a great age, regular maintenance of window fittings is vital, although this is equally as important for the domestic home. Windows should be safely and professionally cleaned at least once a year, and it is best to use a company that is well established, with references and good reviews. The refurbishment was completed after a local Chartres window cleaner was found, and the Chateau de Maintenon has now been restored to its full sparkling splendour.
